

REFLECTIONS ON PROJECT GIVE BACK

Through Project Give Back I have learned that people are there for other people in need, and when I do something nice for others it will come back to me. I like how everyone involved in the organization is so kind and willing to help other people. People think of others and NOT of themselves (that's my favourite part).

I've changed since I have participated in Project Give Back because I know so much about how I can help the environment and help others. I got introduced to the head of the charity that I chose. They asked me if I could come with some Raptors and go build community centres for children (that's what their charity is about).

People can make a HUGE difference and help in other people's lives. I loved working with Project Give Back!
