

Project Give Back Reflection

I learned how to help a charity, and how small things make bigger things happen. I also learned how to make a "Fruggle" and to call a charity on my own. I also learned how to make "Funraiser" and I learned about charities.

I liked making the display and the "Funraiser." I liked how I participated in the "Funraisers." I also liked making the "Fruggle." And I liked everything about it.

I think it is important to do Project Give Back because it teaches people how to help a charity and how to call a charity. It is important because it is really fun. It helps charities, hospitals and definitely people. It tells people about charities because it's a project with a speech and my own favorite, an event. And it is a fun way to teach.

I think I changed because of the charity project. I learned a lot. Now I have more courage to call people by myself. I never thought about charities and now they are more important to me.

By: Benjamin 